

Contents

Editorial	9
Jakov Grigor'evič Rokitjanskij: The „Purge“ – The Takeover of the Rjazanov Institute by Adoratskij Documents
1. Letters, February/March 1931:	23
Ernst Czóbel to Mark Zorkij, February 11, 1931	23
Mark Zorkij to Ernst Czóbel, February 17, 1931	24
Osip Pjatnickij to Ivan Tovstucha, March 2, 1931	24
2. Minutes of the meeting on the examination of the MEI employees, March 4, 1931	27
3. Minutes of the meeting on the examination of the MEI employees, March 5, 1931	79
4. Minutes of the meeting on the examination of the MEI employees, March 20, 1931	100
5. List of MEI employees whose activity in the Institute is no longer desired, March 1931	102
6. Report by Vladimir Viktorovič Adoratskij on the Lenin-Institut and the Marx-Engels-Institut to the Plenum of the EKKI, April 1, 1931	107
Wladislaw Hedeler: Between Academic Research and Stalin's Drive to Power. The Destiny of the Marx-Engels-Lenin-Institute employees (1931–1938)	121
1. The purge of the Institute after the settling of accounts with the „Unionsbüro“	123
2. The new director	135
3. The end of collaboration with the foreign correspondents	136
4. Research in Paris	137
5. New cadre	140
6. The housing question	145
7. The battle on the editorial front	150
8. Self-criticism and accusation: an expression of revolutionary vigilance	152
9. The „case“ of Alexander Emel	161
10. The remaining contacts abroad	165
11. The difficulties of the IMEL as a branch of the ZK	169
12. Adoratskij's analysis of the February-March Plenum and its effects on the IMEL	171
13. The 1938 show trial	175
14. The finale	177

Rolf Hecker: In the midst of National Socialism and Stalinism: the Continuation and the End of the First MEGA (1931–1941)	181
1. Introduction and review of the literature	181
2. The integration of the IMEL through the ZK resolutions	186
3. The changes in the MEGA editorial plan after the „Purge“ of March 1931	192
4. The publication of the first Russian „Works“ edition and the Marx-Engels-Archiv under the new director	206
5. The end of the Marx-Engels-Verlagsgesellschaft in Berlin and the new conditions of production and distribution after the Nazi seizure of power in Germany	217
6. „Marx belongs to us!“ – the „Karl-Marx-Jahr“ in 1933	228
7. The problem of the editing of Marx’s excerpts and the subsequent abandonment of the MEGA	236
8. The IMEL correspondents abroad	241
9. The first edition of Marx’s 1857–58 economic manuscripts as the Grundrisse der Kritik der politischen Ökonomie (1939–41)	252
10. Résumé	267
Documents
1. General plan of the MEGA, April 1931	270
2. Ernst Czóbel: On the economic manuscripts of Marx and Engels, April 17, 1931	272
3. Pavel Veller: Marx’s economic manuscripts of 1857–1858 (Regard to their editing), August 1934	277
4. Ladislav Rudač, Lev Chanonovič Segal’: Declaration on the publication of the MEGA, March 25, 1936	292
5. Aleksandr Feliksovich Kon to Valdimir Viktorovich Adoratskij on Marx’s unpublished economic manuscripts, November 1938	307
Wladislaw Hedeler, Rolf Hecker, Bernd Florath: Vladimir Viktorovich Adoratskij – Life and Work (August 7, 1878 – June 5, 1945)	312
Document: A letter from V. V. Adoratskij to Karl Kautsky (1911)	320
Lutz Dieter Behrendt: Valdimir Viktorovich Adoratskij as the Director of the Party Historical Institute of Red Professors	329
Reinhard Müller: „The Great Cleanup“. The „Purge“ of the Marx-Engels-Institut in the Moscow Notebook of Hugo Huppert	347
Document: Hugo Huppert: From the Notebook 1930–1931	354
Hans Jäger: Good-bye to Moscow. Memories of an Emigrant (1963/64)	371
Ol’ga Konstantinovna Senekina – a researcher of the IMEL remembers (Jakov Rokitjanskij)	391
Short biographies	398
List of cited works by Marx and Engels	435
Name Index	438
Editorial comments, additions and corrections to Sonderband 2	457